NCSS Camp Rainbow 2024 Application

One great aspect of Camp Rainbow is that every camper receives 1:1 support from a trained staff/volunteer who is dedicated to the camper's successful camp day.

Does your child receive support from a 1:1 aide/support staff during the school year?

If YES, Camp Rainbow suggests asking the familiar PCA or school aide to support the camper during the day. This support person would know your camper the best. If that is not possible, then let us know ~ we will happily help you in your search to find someone that you can hire and in some instances the camper may be able to be matched with a trained volunteer or staff person.

ABOUT VOLUNTEERS

Camp Rainbow Volunteers are selected from interested local high school, college, and graduate students. Many volunteers return year after year to support campers and often maintain lasting relationships with campers and their families.

Every Camp Rainbow Volunteer must:

- Complete an NCSS Volunteer Application and submit references.
- Agree and sign the same Confidentiality Policy and Code of Ethics as an NCSS Staff.
- Pass checks of Driving & Criminal Record background, and the Agency of Human Services' background check.
- Attend the Camp Rainbow Volunteer Training, where they learn about:
 - Developmental Disabilities/Autism Spectrum Disorders
 - Communication Strategies
 - Behavioral Support Strategies
 - Camp Philosophy and Safety
 - Fun and Enthusiasm

3. Authorization for Information Release: I authorize social service agencies, schools, clinics, or doctors to release information to the Camp Coordinator. Email Consent Form

Camper Name: _____

Client #: _____

Northwestern Counseling & Support Services, Inc. (NCSS) provides consumers the opportunity to communicate with their Case Managers by email. Email use has a number of risks that consumers should consider before using this means of communication.

General Risks:

- Email messages can be immediately transmitted worldwide and be received by many intended and unintended recipients.
- Email messages can be forwarded to others without the sender's permission or knowledge.
- Users can easily misaddress an email.
- Backup copies of email may exist even after the sender or recipient has deleted his or her copy.

Specific Risks:

- Employees do not have an expectation of privacy in email they send or receive at their place of employment. Thus, consumers who send or receive email from their place of employment risk having their employer read their email.
- Consumers have no way of knowing how soon their case manager will respond to a particular email. We will try to read and respond to an email promptly, but we cannot guarantee that email messages will be read and responded to within any particular period of time. Thus, do not use email in an emergency.

Conditions for the Use of Email:

NCSS will treat email communications with the same degree of confidentiality as it does all consumer information. NCSS will use reasonable means to protect the security and confidentiality of email information. However, because of the risks listed above NCSS cannot guarantee the security and confidentiality of email communications.

Consumers must consent to the use of email after having been informed of the above risks, prior to communicating with their case managers by this method. Consent to the use of email includes agreement with the following conditions:

- Some email messages may become part of the consumer's record. As part of the record other individuals will have access to these messages.
- NCSS may forward email messages within the organization if necessary. We will not forward the message outside the organization without your consent.
- Your case manager will try to read the email promptly and respond promptly, if warranted. However, NCSS can provide no assurance that the recipient of a particular email will read the message promptly. Because NCSS cannot assure consumers that recipients will read messages promptly, you should not use email in an emergency.
- If your email requires or invites a response, and you do not receive one in a reasonable time, you are responsible for following up to determine whether the email was received and when the recipient will respond.
- Be careful in the content of your messages-unauthorized disclosure of sensitive health information could be damaging.
- Because employees do not have a right of privacy in their employer's email system, do not use your employers email system to transmit or receive confidential information.

- NCSS cannot guarantee that email communications will be private. NCSS will take reasonable steps to protect the confidentiality of consumer email but is not liable for improper disclosure of confidential information not caused by NCSS.
- If you consent to the use of email, you are responsible for informing NCSS of any types of information you do not want sent by email.
- You are responsible for protecting your password or other means of access to email sent or received from NCSS to protect confidentiality. NCSS is not liable for breaches of confidentiality caused by you.
- You may withdraw consent to use email at any time by written communication to your case manager.

I have read and understand the above policy on email communications:
